FOREWORD

I am happy at the publication of the Directory of Small Scale Industries registered with the Directorate of Industries. I understand this Directory is based on the census of units which were found actually working. I am sure this publication would be found useful by all concerned and particularly by industrialists and traders both within and outside the State.

The present volume consists of the 1st part of the series covering industrial units registered up to 31st December, 1973. I hope this publication would be soon followed by Volume II covering units which came up and were registered with the Department during the years 1974 and 1975.

I congratulate the Industries Department for this useful effort.

(HARIDEO JOSHI)

PREFACE

Rapid industrialisation has been accepted as the principle means of economic progress and self reliance in the country. Wedded to this aspiration, we are endeavouring to achieve an important place in the industrial map of the country. The State Government has granted a large number of incentives and concessions for development of industries. The State has produced many big entrepreneurs who have established large industrial ventures in metropolitan cities of Bombay and Calcutta. The State had been neglected in this field until the formation of Rajasthan. During the various plans, the State has made concerted efforts to provide all the infrastructure necessary for rapid industrialisation of the State. The results have no doubt been very encouraging. As against about 5000 registered SSI units in the State in 1965, we have at present about 19000 registered functioning units. This picture has emerged even after eliminating and deregistering about 5700 bogus and closed units. In 1974, we launched a complete census of all the units registered with the department as upto 31st December 1973 and collected detailed information about each and every registered SSI unit. This was part of the National Census of SSI conducted throughout the country. This being the first census of its kind in the field of small scale industries, we did find a good number of closed/non-existent units which were registered with the department during the last two decades and were existing on the registers of the department. Such closed/ non-existent units have since been removed from the records of the department and each such bogus unit has been individually deregistered. The present Directory that we are presenting in this volume covers all the units registered with the department upto 31st December 1973 and found working during the census. This is volume I in the series and is immediately being followed by volume II covering functioning units registered with the department during the years 1974 and 1975. The Directory covers important information like investment, employment, items of production and product wise capacity in respect of each and every unit. Full name and address of the unit has been given in each case. The Directory has been prepared district-wise, districts arranged in their alphabetical order, within each district, it is compiled town-wise, towns again arranged in their alphabetical order within the district. Under each town, the list of units has been classified according to the National Industrial Classification, arranged serially according to the three digit code of the classification. Within each industry group in each town, the names of the units have again been arranged in alphabetical order. All this has been done to make available duly classified district/town wise and industry-wise information and to enable easy reference about any place, industry or unit. The units in the rural area in each district have been grouped under the head "Rural" and given at the end of the Directory for towns within each district. The complete three digit classification of industries is reproduced at the end of the Directory as appendix I so that looking to the three digit code number of interest to the reader, the units under that code could be easily located in the Directory.

The broad district/town/industry-wise results based on National Census have been presented as appendices II to IV at the end. Appendix V gives frequency table of the yearwise number of units established. In appendix VI we have indicated the concessions and facilities available to industries in Rajasthan and in appendix VII, we have given the list of candidate industries in different districts of Rajasthan based on industrial potential surveys conducted by different agencies.

It will be appreciated that all this involved huge labour in collection, compilation, and printing of the material in the form as presented. We hope, in the present form, the Directory will be found useful by the industrial and trading community who want to self-promote the products of their interest. It will also be found useful to entrepreneurs who want to establish their units by knowing the existing locations and structure of small scale industries in the state.

We appreciate the labour put in by the staff in compiling and bringing out this huge publication. We are also thankful to the Rajasthan Small Industries Corporation who have taken up the publication and printing of this book.

Any comments on the scope and coverage of the Directory and suggestions for its further improvement will be appreciated.
